

PRIVACY POLICY

Personal data is certain information about a natural person that allows them to be identified in some way, to locate them by any means or to contact them. For example, name, identity document, telephone or email are personal data. The law requires those who use this type of data to take certain measures to protect it. In this privacy statement we explain how the International Human Rights Organization, INC., Protects and guarantees the security of your personal data.

DONORS

When you use our website www.oidh-usa.com and you give us a donation, we will use your data to manage your financial contributions, increase your contribution, make a solidarity purchase in our online store and send you the certificate of annual contributions so that you can deduct them. We will indicate the data that are necessary and those that are optional.

Every year we will send the tax administration information about your monetary contributions so that you can deduct them. The legal basis that legitimizes the processing of your data is your consent. We will keep your personal information indefinitely for statistical purposes or at least the time necessary to attend to the responsibilities derived from the processing of your data, such as, for example, compliance with the legislation on the prevention of money laundering.
